Reasons for Allowance

Claim 3 recites an operating relay system a call assistant, voice recognition and an assisted person and a limitation for the following:

"the digital computer using voice recognition computer software trained to the voice of the call assistant to translate the words spoken by the call assistant into a digital text message stream containing the words spoken by the call assistant"

The prior art of record teaches relay system with call assistants and assisted persons but not using voice recognition computer software as described in the limitation and the context of the claim. New search updates revealed no other prior art which teaches the limitation in the context of the claim. Therefore, Claim 3 is indicated allowable.
